Why Do We Need a Visual Identity System?

The Rutgers name is recognized around the world. As the eighth oldest institution of higher education in the nation, Rutgers has built a prominent and credible brand for over 250 years. We all play an important role in maintaining and strengthening that brand.

By using the common set of graphic elements, colors, font styles, and symbols described in this guide, you convey a consistent visual identity for all of the campuses, divisions, schools, departments, centers, units, organizations, and programs that make up Rutgers. We all benefit from this collective identity for the university.

The visual identity system helps everyone to quickly recognize Rutgers and immediately associate the stature of the university’s brand with its numerous units, services, and programs. The purpose of this User Guide is to help members of the Rutgers community, as well as other authorized users, understand how to correctly use the university’s logos, colors, and other brand elements.
It’s Policy

In 2006, the Rutgers Board of Governors mandated a cohesive, recognizable visual identity system for universitywide use across Rutgers. This policy requires every member of the university community to apply the guidelines and standards in this visual identity user guide to all forms of internal and external university communications and materials that officially represent the university.

The policy requires that:

■ Rutgers brand elements, as described in this user guide, are the only sanctioned marks that can be used to officially represent the university

■ No other marks or symbols may be used or created to officially represent the university and its programs, people, or initiatives as a whole or in part

How to Use the System

All communications, merchandise, and other materials intended for use both internal and external to the university should include Rutgers’ official marks.

For more information on the university’s visual identity policy, please review university policy 80.1.5: University Visual Identity or contact the Department of University Communications and Marketing.

The Rutgers brand is an asset that can increase or decrease in value. Deviations from the visual identity system erode and devalue the Rutgers brand, therefore, exceptions to this policy are rarely justified or granted. A written appeal for an exception must be submitted to, and approved by, the Department of University Communications and Marketing.

How to Get Help

The Rutgers Visual Identity System is maintained by the Department of University Communications and Marketing.

Visit our website at communications.rutgers.edu or email contactus@ucm.rutgers.edu to:

■ Ask for brand elements that are part of the visual identity system

■ Get answers about how to use elements of the visual identity system

■ Discuss compliance, special permissions, and exemptions

Protecting the Marks

The official logos and marks in this guide are federally registered trademarks of the university. Rutgers, like other major universities, maintains a trademark program to protect its trademarks from infringement and misuse. This protection is required to maintain the federal registration, to avoid public confusion and to ensure that logos and marks federally registered by Rutgers are used for their intended purpose.

When Rutgers marks (Rutgers R, mascot logos, etc.) are placed on branded merchandise, including apparel and headwear, they should always include the appropriate registration mark. The application is required regardless of whether an item is for sale or to be given away as a promotional item. Application of the registered trademark symbol ® or ™ to Rutgers marks is not required when Rutgers marks and brand elements are used on printed materials, stationery, marketing collateral, websites, or digital communications.

Contact the Office of Trademark Licensing at trademark@ucm.rutgers.edu or 848-932-0586/0558 to:

■ Get guidance about how to let vendors, partners, or sponsors use the Rutgers name and marks

■ Find vendors who are licensed to make products with Rutgers trademarks

System Overview

The Rutgers R is the official logo of the university and the foundational mark of the visual identity system. The elements of the visual identity system are available for download or upon request. To maintain brand consistency, don’t create the marks or any combination of these components yourself.

To download electronic files of the visual identity system, visit communications.rutgers.edu/identity. For more information, email contactus@ucm.rutgers.edu.

To keep the integrity of the Rutgers brand intact and preserve its value, everyone must display the Rutgers R, signatures, and athletics mascot logos correctly. This includes using the correct fonts, positioning, and size of all elements.

These standards and examples apply to all communications materials and merchandise produced by or on behalf of Rutgers University: its units, programs, and departments or any other group representing the university in an official capacity.

Unacceptable Treatments

To clarify how to use our brand elements, we’ve created some examples of how the marks should NOT be used or changed. Although we are providing a range of Don’ts in this section, it is not exhaustive; other unacceptable treatments and special cases of exemptions certainly exist. If you have questions about what can and cannot be done within the parameters of the visual identity system, please contact identity@ucm.rutgers.edu.

Don’ts

1. Do not use double lines around the Rutgers R
2. Do not crop any portion of the Rutgers R
3. Do not put anything—text, graphics, or symbols—inside the Rutgers R.
4. Do not place text or a graphic over the Rutgers R
5. Do not use the Rutgers R as a gradient or watermark
6. Do not distort or resize any portion of the Rutgers R or signature
7. Do not manipulate a signature in any way
8. Do not make the signature any color other than red, black, or white
Rutgers Signature Generator

The signature generator is an online tool developed to allow Rutgers faculty and staff to download existing signatures or create a new signature for a school or unit. You can download or create Rutgers R horizontal and vertical signatures using the application. A Rutgers NetID is required to access the system at signaturegenerator.rutgers.edu.

Horizontal and vertical signatures are created separately by the generator. Users are asked to input unit information to fit the specifications for each signature style. Central administrative and school communicators will approve their respective signatures.

Once a signature is approved, the generator will create color combinations and file types for a signature’s package. Each set of files contains allowed color variations and standard file formats for print and digital applications and a README.pdf that serves as a key to the files. See the examples on the right.

This application is reserved for brand enhancing words and phrases. Access to the font that aligns with the Rutgers R is managed by University Communications and Marketing.

Reach out to contactus@ucm.rutgers.edu if your team is interested in using the Rutgers R in a word or phrase. Words and applications for using the Rutgers R in words is subject to approval from University Communications and Marketing.

Shapes
(Used to indicate the category for the digital badge)
- Shield: Academic Program badges

- Square: Standalone or other badge types

Rutgers Logos
- The Rutgers R primary signature should be used on Academic Program, Professional Development, and Standalone badge types in the top third of the badge

The lower third of the badge design can be used for the name of the sponsoring school or unit, a subject-related icon, or a badge-level indicator. Font and character limits in this section of the badge design are specified in the templates.

Badge Level
Use a corner or bottom area of the badge to indicate the level—recommend that levels correspond across all categories.

- The Rutgers R logo, with or without a signature, and the unit address should appear on the back of multipage publications.
- The appropriate name for the university should also be used in the address block.

ANALYTICS FOR PREVENTION

There is a proven solution for making communities safer by diagnosing high crime areas, and it was developed at Rutgers. Risk terrain modeling uses data and technology to help the public and police work together to analyze crime patterns, prioritize responses, and take action. The results can achieve a 30% reduction in crime.

USING DATA TO COMBAT CRIME

Using the red and white version of the institutional logo with ample space around it.

A good example of a unit using the Rutgers R without a signature. Also a good use of a patterned background.

Display materials must be bought through a licensed vendor.

Good use of the primary color palette.

The white and black signature option works nicely on the red background.

Good use of the primary color palette.

Use actual Rutgers students, staff or faculty.
Stationery Standards

The stationery standards provided are to be used by all units within the university.

You can order stationery products through Dupli Envelope & Graphics, the university’s preferred stationery vendor. See the Resources section for ordering details.

Glossary

Clear Space: Clear space is the area immediately surrounding a logo and is specifically designated to be free of any text or graphics. This space gives breathing room to the logo and shows the design in the best possible light.

CMYK: Stands for Cyan, Magenta, Yellow, Black and are the four basic colors used for printing color images.

EPS File: Encapsulated PostScript; a file extension for a graphics file format used in vector-based images in Adobe Illustrator.

Graphic Element: A shape, style, texture, or pattern without adjacent words or text used to enhance communications materials or marketing pieces, but not compete with Rutgers main brand elements or violate clear space requirements.

Hex Color: A color hex code is a way of specifying color using hexadecimal values. The code itself is a hex triplet, which represents three separate values that specify the levels of the component colors. The code starts with a pound sign (#) and is followed by six hex values or three hex value pairs (for example, #A8F6B5).

Licensee: A third party allowed to make Rutgers branded products under a licensor’s trademark agreement. Vendors without this agreement in place cannot legally reproduce products with any of the Rutgers trademarks–including the Rutgers name.

Logo: Stylized text or text combined with a graphic element that is used to represent a product, department, organization, project, or initiative. Marks that are considered to be a logo outside the approved Rutgers Visual Identity System are not permitted.

Pantone: A system for matching colors, used in specifying printing inks.

PNG File: Portable Network Graphics; a patent-free file format for image compression, commonly used for images.

RGB: Red, Green, Blue; sets color values for images on a computer screen.

Signature: The combination of the Rutgers R with an additional, more specific identifier. Rutgers signatures are created with specific fonts and spacing requirements and can only be created by University Communications and Marketing.

Template: A pre-designed master file used to help you implement the brand correctly. Templates are available for PowerPoint presentations, electronic letterhead, and email signatures.

Trademark: A symbol, word, or words legally registered or established by first use as representing a company or product. Federally registered trademarks are indicated with the appropriate symbol ® in the first instance of use to protect legal ownership. TM is used when a symbol or word is not yet federally registered.

Unit: In this user guide, “unit” is used to refer to a type of Rutgers organizational division; department, school, office, center, division, etc. may all be referred to as a unit.
